HOMECOMING WAS BEST IN YEARS AT LAWRENCE

Bad Weather Fails to Detract from Interest of Former Students in Alma Mater

In spite of the weather, the 1925 Lawrence Homecoming Saturday was pronounced "one of the best in years" by students, alumni, and visitors alike. The program arranged by John Hincott, of Neenah, general chairman, accounted for every minute of the day with some activity.

A great number of alumni from almost every portion of the state, returned to boost the Blue and White in the Ripon-Lawrence fracas. The largest delegation from one place was probably that of Milwaukee.

The Delta Iota fraternity copied the prize for the best decorated frat house, and the Phi Mu sorority placed first with the best decorated sorority rooms. Beta Sigma Phi won the cup for the best decorated foot.

The finale came Saturday night at the homecoming dance at the Armory. The hall was decorated with blue and white and crimson streamers. Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Wriston, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Naylor, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Trever, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Mullenix were chaperones. A novel program, printed in blue on a white background as a football field, the yard lines being the dances, was arranged by Larry Lyons, Appleton, chairman of the dance committee.

17 NAVY SEAPLANES PILED UP IN STORM

Elevated railway station were torn off, the roof of a five-story tenement was peeled off and a 24-inch smokestack weighing several tons fell from the top of a five-story office building without injury to anyone, although heavy traffic had to be detoured afterward. Trolley and other traffic was reported halted or delayed in a score of places in the metropolitan and suburban areas.

The Commonwealth crack passenger steamer of the Fall River line was disabled off New London, Conn., when bound from New York to Fall River.

Troy, Ala.—(AP)—Remnants of many portions of Pike, Barbour and Crawford counties were endeavoring to bring order out of chaos that resulted from a tornado which claimed a known toll of 17 lives, injured many, rendered homeless hundreds and left thousands of dollars' damage in its wake.

Troy Red Cross forces and local physicians are ministering to the needs of the injured and were assisting the stricken people. A relief fund was subscribed here Sunday afternoon and made immediately available to the relief workers who went into the field.

The tornado seemed to have its origin in Crenshaw co where it swept down with tremendous force, tearing its way across the breadth of Pike, Barbour and Crawford counties. It was reported that it appears to have spent itself.

Near Lurleen two were killed both of them aged, and one past 100 years of age.

The death list could not be completed as to names owing to the widely scattered victims, some of them remote from telephone and telegraph communication and the general impairment of wires by the tornado.

Residents near the path of the tornado were aroused by the roar of the twister and the cries of the injured. They rushed into the stricken area in a deluge of rain, working for hours in search for the dead and giving aid to the injured. The dead and injured were picked up in the fields in the roads and under debris of fallen buildings and trees.

The tornado came at the conclusion of a period of intense heat and threatening weather of Saturday. It was followed by a severe electrical storm.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; colder tonight, continued cold Tuesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A series of low pressure areas dominates the weather conditions over the states has caused rains quite general from the Missouri valley eastward during the past several days. A low pressure center overlies northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin this morning, with rains or snows from the Missouri to the St. Lawrence valley. This will cause snow to continue in this section this afternoon and tonight. Higher pressure and low temperature follow to the eastward, and slowly clearing and colder weather will follow the passage of the "low."

AMATEUR STARS IN ELK'S COMEDY

FOUR of Appleton's best known amateur actresses have been cast for leading parts in "The Jollies of 1925" Elk's musical comedy, which will be played Monday and Tuesday evening at Fischer's Appleton theater. Mrs. Bertha Berry will play the part of Sylvia Madeline Ripley, the village gossip and her part has many a good laugh in store for those who come to see the "Jollies." Sylvia is a great burden on the shoulders of the inn, and her dogged persistence she finally succeeds in getting the luckless Doolittle to marry her. Ruth McKennan, as Billy Barton, a lady of means has probably played in as many amateur theatrical productions as anyone in Appleton, and the part she has in the "Jollies" is well suited to her. Her song number "Longing" is the feature of the second scene of act two. Hannah Rosenthal, playing the part of Vivette, Billy Barton's "seemingly" French maid is well known to Appleton people as a dancer of ability. Her feature number will be the "Jollies" dance, which she does with Buttons, the "hard boiled" bellhop, assisted by the chorus. Marjorie Davis plays the part of Trixie, the hotel stenographer, who is continually getting into an argument with Buttons, the bellhop. Miss Davis has taken part in many home talent plays during the last few years, and her singing and dancing numbers have always been well received by Appleton people.

Chicago—The trial of Terry Druggan, noted guest of the Cook county jail and quondam best king, for assault on F. J. Levering, a newspaper reporter, began Monday before Judge Marcus Cavanaugh. BOOKKEEPER IS UNDER ARREST FOR EMBEZZLING

Fountain Lumber Co. Employee Is Short in Accounts, Court Is Told

Arraigned in municipal court Monday morning on a charge of embezzlement, Louis A. Hoffman, 1702 W. Spencer st., waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the upper branch of municipal court for trial by jury at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 4. He was unable to furnish bail which was fixed at $3,500 and was committed to the county jail until the date set for his trial.

Hoffman, who was employed as bookkeeper for the Fountain Lumber Co., 129 N. State st., was arrested Sunday noon by Chief of Police George T. Prim and Officer Albert P. Delsen upon the complaint of William Fountain, president and treasurer of the Fountain Lumber Co.

Although denying the charge when arrested, he finally admitted his guilt under questioning, according to Chief Prim. He was held at police headquarters until Monday morning.

A shortage in the books of the Fountain Lumber Co. was discovered for Saturday by Mr. Fountain, who declared closer examination revealed that probably several thousand dollars was not accounted for in the records for the past year.

Hoffman has been in the employ of the Fountain Lumber Co. for 13 years, according to Mr. Fountain.

WANT WRISTON TO SPEAK AT STATE BOYS' CONCLAVE

Lawrence College President Urged to Take Part in Meeting in Fond du Lac

Efforts are being made by members of the committee in charge of the annual state older boys' conference which will be held at Fond du Lac, N. Nov. 27-28-29, this year, to get Dr. Henry Merritt Wriston, new president of Lawrence college, to speak on the three-day program. Dr. Wriston has a busy schedule of talks snapped out for a long time and was unable to state whether he would talk to the state youths. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin will be one of the speakers and other talks will be given by E. F. Steiner of Grinnell college, Grinnell, Iowa, a well-known boys' conference speaker; Bishop E. H. Hughes of Chicago; Gertrude Little, director of athletics and football coach at the University of Wisconsin. George Campbell and his famous quartet from the Y. M. C. A. college at Chicago also are on the program.

Because of the short distance to the conference this year, Appleton is planning to send an extra-large delegation. All boys of 15 years or older in Appleton or surrounding territory are eligible to attend the annual affair and members of the H-Y club are cooperating in making up local delegations. W. H. "Dad" Wones of Milwaukee, state boys' work secretary and one of the best-known boys' workers in the midwest, will speak to Appleton boys in the interests of the conference within the next three weeks.

The local H-Y club has issued a challenge to the Green Bay club to a contest to see which organization will send the largest and best group of delegates to Fond du Lac, and the Green Bay boys have accepted. The competition between the two clubs since the Appleton group instituted the Green Bay club and initiated its first officers about a year ago has been close but friendly. The Green Bay boys will join the local youths here and the two groups will go on to Fond du Lac together.

These soloists are delightful and are drawing the plaudits of many audiences. RELIGION IN NATIONAL LIFE

President Coolidge is a firm believer in the potency of christianity in our national life. He is constantly advertising to religion as the true social guide and as the hope of the republic. His talks on the subject are a practical application of spiritual faith to the problems of the day.

Mr. Coolidge believes that lack of respect for law, lack of consideration for the rights of others, vice, crime and fast living are the result of a lowered religious atmosphere in the home and among people generally. Whenever we have a moral or ethical question to contend with, his remedy is the teaching of Christ. He has more faith in the efficacy for good of Christ-made than of man-made law.

Addressing the international convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Washington, the president, while praising the work of the associations as an effort toward bringing more home control into the lives of young men, declared "there are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down."

Mr. Coolidge here lays his hands on one of the tender spots of the modern jazz age. Within the last generation there has been a perceptible weakening of home control over youth. At the same time, the religious influence in the home has waned. In recent years we have constantly increased the government's responsibility for the rearing of children in various ways, we have turned over supervision of other discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts, we have relegated their morals and character to the keeping of social agencies and associations.

Paying this tribute to the Y. M. C. A. in its moral and religious activities—that "probably no other lay force asserts so large an influence upon the young people," the president nevertheless declared that control of the nation's youth from the home, as the "cornerstone of the nation," is indispensable and is preferable to any other.

No good citizen, no parent, will dispute this assertion. Mr. Darrow might challenge it, but never the millions of God-fearing Americans who reverence a faith like that displayed by our forefathers down through Washington to Lincoln, and to McKinley, Wilson and Coolidge, and who know that all of the enduring achievements of the nation have been wrought on the foundations of christianity and with gratitude to God for his manifold blessings.

When President Coolidge says the need of America is to get back to a fuller acceptance of the responsibilities of parenthood and the christian elevation of the home, he states what everybody knows to be a one hundred per cent truth.

REPEAL OF INHERITANCE TAXES

The move for a repeal by congress of the federal inheritance tax law is gaining ground. Whereas a short time ago it appeared that congress would present almost a stone wall against elimination of this tax, public sentiment for it has become so noticeable that the House ways and means committee is now seriously considering a report favorable to the recommendation of the national committee on inheritance taxation, headed by Frederic A. Delano, that federal estate taxes be repealed at the end of six years. A report from Washington is to the effect that Chairman Green of the ways and means committee has approved the recommendation, and if this is correct it probably is equivalent to approval by the committee.

It was reported that the committee is inclined to support a measure immediately reducing the maximum from 40 to 15 per cent.

The issue over inheritance taxes is not partisan. Both the Republican and Democrat parties are divided on the question, some of the warmest advocates of repeal being Democrats and some of the strongest opponents being Republicans. The repeal is favored by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and by President Coolidge. It is favored by the American Bankers association.

Not the least of the argument in support of repeal of the federal inheritance tax law is the double taxation of estates, by reason of the fact that inheritances are also taxed by states. It is contended, and with reason, that either the federal government or the states ought to get out of this field of taxation and leave it exclusively to one. Since the federal government is not dependent on taxes of this kind and can obtain ample revenues from other sources, the best solution of the problem probably is to leave inheritance taxation to the states, as is proposed. Each state would then be free to apply this taxation in any measure it desired, or to omit it entirely. In principle the taxation of inheritances is undoubtedly sound. Application of the principle naturally creates differences of opinion, but where the application is left to the states, they will gain or suffer by it as they are reasonable and just in their levies.

CURTAIN BOOZE SUPPLY

Even the most pessimistic reports on prohibition enforcement all concede that the conditions the first year of prohibition, and perhaps the second, were "good." That is, prohibition was fairly well enforced, and it turned out, when enforced, to be a good thing for the people.

Is this not an encouraging example for the policy of "attacking at the source"? There were just as many thirsty people the first year of prohibition as the fifth, and there were just as many lawless persons willing to peddle booze to them. The difference was the supply.

Retail bootlegging could spring up over night, and did. Wholesale supplies had to wait on capitalized organization. Until there were wholesalers to supply them, the petty bootleggers were unable to do much.

And if the wholesale supply can now be curtailed, the retail bootlegging will again be negligible. That is a matter of profits.

Men may buy booze from appetite or smart-aleckness and may peddle it from recklessness, or because they have no other job, but men go into the wholesale smuggling or moonshining business only for profit.

Take that away and you do not need to reform them. They quit. Then the small bootlegger with his home-made moonshine is soon out of a job.

"CRIME WAVES"

All the analyses of the "crime wave" emphasize one thing which abundantly justifies the restrictive policy of the new immigration law.

The critics explain that it is impossible to make the same appeal to community sentiment in this country as in others, because we are so many sorts of people that whatever seems axiomatically right to one group of us seems as axiomatically wrong to other groups.

We are not moved by the scorn of our neighbors, because many of them would praise us for the very things that others condemn.

A homogeneous group, even of savages, imposes the common will without law because there is a common will. This force of public sentiment must do most of the law-enforcing, even in the most advanced communities. In America, where there are so many public sentiments, this force is weakened.

It's a wise man who knows he isn't.

I don't tell you I know. It is disconcerting to learn how little I really do.

Sometimes one person doesn't like another because they are alike which is embarrassing to both.

The man who doesn't find fault with you is your best friend.

Doing as taken now and then isn't half as big a mistake as never being mistaken.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

ADVICE BY BENEVOLENT BEN

Massachusetts man says his three children, aged 8, 14 and 17 years, have never been vaccinated, and he asks whether it would improve their health if they were vaccinated now. Also whether it would protect them from smallpox. The children are in good health at present. Do I believe in having children of this age examined by a doctor each year? The 8 year old boy has had some trouble with his tonsils, especially in the cold winter weather. The boy is chock full of play and some fool pranks at times. "We have been told that if we have him vaccinated or have his tonsils removed he will not be so wild."

The children should have been vaccinated long ago. It is in infancy and early childhood that smallpox is most deadly or most severe and therefore most likely to leave the victim's face horribly scarred and pitted, if the child is lucky enough to survive the attack at all. For this reason it is, in my judgment, the duty of parents to see to it that children are given this protection early in life, always before the end of the first year, and if smallpox is epidemic in the community it is advisable to vaccinate the baby at the age of two months. A child successfully vaccinated may retain a fair or sufficient degree of immunity for life. The immunity against variola (smallpox) conferred by vaccination (cowpox) is relative, not absolute, and probably diminishes gradually with the passing of the years. However, the susceptibility to smallpox also lessens as the child grows older. It may be that a second attempt to vaccinate should be made when the child is 12 years of age or thereabouts. This attempt will fail if the immunity be still fairly good. My individual belief is that a second attempt at vaccination need not be made unless the child is exposed to smallpox in an unusual or extraordinary degree; say in the midst of a real outbreak or epidemic of smallpox in the community. Then the precaution of a second attempt as vaccination is advisable. I believe.

Unquestionably there is a certain degree of risk involved in vaccination. Now and then some untoward infection occurs; once in a million times even death is caused by vaccination. Nevertheless the risk is so insignificant, compared with the disastrous effects of smallpox and the great risk of unvaccinated person runs, that I believe in keeping well vaccinated, although I think parents who do not believe in vaccination are contemptible if they do not fight compulsory vaccination with all the energy they would use in fighting off all other unwarrantable assault upon their children.

It is novel to find our old friend, Ben Todd in a benevolent role. As a general rule Ben gets in only the vilest dirty work. Here he is urging this Massachusetts father to try vaccination as a remedy for "wildness" in the case of the regular twenty yearling.

It is just as silly, though, to imagine that vaccination would improve a child's health (aside from protection against smallpox) as it is to imagine that vaccination improves anybody's health in any way.

Benevolent Ben offers this rather credulous Yankee dad the alternative of sacrificing the child's tonsils.

That's the cats pajamas.

I suppose if this Bay state family's cat should rip up her pajamas they'd consult the family physician about the advisability of having "em sewed up."

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 28, 1900.

Marriage licenses were issued to E. E. Krause and Anna Kuehler, both of Appleton; James L. Gwynn and Mary Kelley, both of Appleton; also to Henry W. Snyder of Freedom and Katherine Schmitt of Black Creek.

W. W. DeLong, architect, was preparing plans for a new building to be erected by J. H. Mathes, photographer. It was to be located on College avenue adjoining the Hassman brothers store.

Captain George McGillan, fireman of the No. 2 engine house was to be married Wednesday, Nov. 7, to Mrs. Sadie Golden of Wrightstown.

The marriage of Dr. Amos Adst of this city, and Miss Leberman of Shelby, was announced to take place the following Wednesday.

A two seated vehicle belonging to Mrs. Edward West was smashed by kindling wood in front of the Appleton Gas, Light and Fuel Co., Saturday afternoon when the horse became frightened at an interurban and dashed down the street.

Mr. Cowie, superintendent of the Kimberly mill, was surprised Friday evening, when the entire population of Kimberly accompanied by an orchestra of six pieces marched to his home and expressed its good will. The company then made its way to the pavilion of Kimberly club of which Mr. Cowie was president and spent the evening in dancing.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thomas Miller, a student at the high school badly sprained his two wrists when he fell Saturday afternoon. He was chasing a man who had insulted Prof. Edward Meach at the football game with West Green Bay.

Marriage licenses were issued to Ellis F. Carroll of Milwaukee and May Katherine McGillan of Appleton, Arthur Mowert and Edith Borchardt, both of Kaukauna.

SEEN, HEARD and IMAGINED

HOW TO START THE DAY RIGHT

"William, will you come back at once and put on your rubbers?"

The Injun at Superior who was the first to come out with the annual prediction of an early, cold and long winter, seems to have convinced some folk on the first part of the prediction.

Poets who gush over the "snow, snow, beautiful snow," have been getting their inspiration from the inside looking out. And we haven't seen any artists on the streets either, unless you can call the boys who tried vainly to make a snow man artists.

After but recently resuming acquaintance with the ash can, many an Appletonian has rediscovered that there is such a thing as snow shovel, much to his regret.

Between the pessimist who moans, "And to think that we'll have seven more months of this weather!" and the optimist who breezes into the office with "Isn't this wonderful weather?" we are rather hard put just now.

We resent the carelessness of the Lakeport man who switched that "Twenty-Five Year Ago" column headline on this same page and slipped it into the "Seen Heard and Imagined" column. We call that a dirty trick, even if some of the jokes in this column are 25 years old.

Column conductors may strip the soars of their brain box, they may wear down their finger nails scratching their heads, they may get stooped shouldered from overdoing the pensive mood, they may wear wrinkles on their brow instead of at the side of their mouth, in the newest second hand puns showing the very least wear, yet there will always be somebody to say, "Oh, I heard that one before."

All motorists may be divided into two classes. Reckless drivers and Wreckless drivers.

From the name of the town you would judge that Ripon is a city with high rents. The Ripon gridders failed to make any in the shirts of the Lawrence players last Saturday. But there was a lot of mud splattering.

Now that Kaukauna high school has won a game again, after losing a week earlier to West Green Bay, coach Bill Smith can afford to be "pessimistic" once more.

Maybe Bill wasn't pessimistic enough in that West Green Bay game.

They call him "Tiger" Bill. Well, we never heard of any tiger that was very cheerful.

At the Lawrence-Ripon game there were two sets of plungers. On one side there were Ripon, Nassau and Easton. And on the other side were the Lawrence plungers on the sidelines. We were NOT one of them.

HOW TO END THE DAY RIGHT

The Question Box

When in doubt—ask Haskin. He offers himself as a target for the questions of our readers. He agrees to furnish facts for all who ask. This is a large contract—one that has never been filled before. It would be possible only in Washington, and only to one who has spent a lifetime in locating sources of information. Haskin does not know all the things that people ask him, but he knows people who do know. Try him. State your questions briefly, write plainly, and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Address The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Did Walter Johnson ever pitch a no-hit game? G. D. N.

A. Walter Johnson pitched one no-hit game, July 1, 1920 when Washington played Boston. The score was one to nothing.

Q. Where is the northern boundary of the Antarctic Ocean? I. F.

A. Although the name Antarctic has been applied to the waters surrounding the Antarctic land mass, modern geographers prefer to consider these waters as forming the southern ends of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans. The dividing lines are respectively the meridian of Cape Horn (68 degrees W.); the meridian of South Cape Tasmania (146.5 degrees E.), and that of Cape Agulhas (20 degrees E.).

Q. What is meant by the 10 o'clock line in Indiana? T. D. M.

A. The Director of the Historical Bureau of Indiana says that the 10 o'clock line is the northern boundary of the so-called Fort Wayne treaty (1809) land, acquired from the Indians by Governor William Henry Harrison and often called the Harrison Purchase. It was surveyed in 1806 to 1811. It constitutes the southern boundary of the so-called "New Purchase." It gets its name from the Indian settlement that the line should run along the sun's shadow at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Q. Does Galicia belong to Austria? A. M.

A. Since 1919 Galicia has been incorporated with Poland.

Q. How fast does radium lose its value? M. P. S.

A. Radium loses half its value in approximately 1800 years, no matter how it is packed.

Q. What kind of potatoes should be used for making potato chips? I. E. B.

A. Green Mountain potatoes and Rural New Yorkers are considered among the best varieties for potato chips.

Q. Are bachelors common in China? H. N.

A. Bachelors and old maids in health and mature years are unknown. Marriage is universal.

Q. In a test for tuberculosis, what is meant by "acid-fast bacilli found"? M. A. P.

A. The Public Health Service says that tuberculosis bacilli is spoken of as being acid-fast, and the finding of an acid fast bacillus in the sputum does indicate tuberculosis. There are other acid fast bacilli, however, such as streptococci and bacilli, but these are not generally found in the sputum.

Q. Have you statistic to show that women are mentally weaker than men? J. M. P.

A. Of the 232,650 patients with mental diseases in institutions on January 1, 1920—121,030 were males and 111,649 females. The sex distribution of the mental patients in the several States varies more widely than that of the general population. In most of the Eastern and Southern States the while in the Western States the men patients are in majority. The psychoses due to harmful indulgence and exposure are far more prevalent in men than in women while those arising from bodily weakness are as a rule more common in women.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

THE PROBABLE GENESIS OF A GREAT NOVEL

So far as I know, it has never been pointed out that there is some reason to believe that Knut Hamsun was indebted to Ledeslas St. Reymont for "The Peasants" and "Growth of the Soil." I have absolutely no proof for this statement except such proof as anyone can find for himself by reading "The Peasant" and "Growth of the Soil," but the theory seems very plausible to me.

"Growth of the Soil" was introduced to this country before "The Peasants" and hence some may be under the impression that it was written first. But that is not the case. While "Growth of the Soil" was published in England in 1920 and "The Peasants" in 1921, the latter was written and published in Poland nearly 20 years before "Growth of the Soil" was published in Norway. So it is not at all unreasonable that Knut Hamsun was familiar with "The Peasants" when he wrote his great novel.

LIKE HAMSUM

And now for the probable genesis of "Growth of the Soil." Those who have read the fourth volume of "The Peasants" will probably remember that there is an episode in that book that in a general way has a marked likeness to the general idea of Knut Hamsun's book. The young fellow named Simon gets married against his mother's will so that she disinherits him and then after a period of despair he gets hold of a piece of wild land and starts to carve out a farm for himself. The story is told in quick impressionable strokes but it has the flavor of an epic tale. The struggle to conquer the wild land, the Herculean efforts to build a hut, the joy at acquiring a cow, a few fowls, a pig, the battle against discouragement, the ecstasy when success begins to crown the work, the sense of cooperation with the forces of nature—all that gives a sense of something big and universal underlying the simple narrative. It is in reality a story of a "growth of the soil" in a Polish community.

In "The Peasants" the story of Simon and his farm is only an episode that is almost lost among the many other episodes that make up the novel; in "Growth of the Soil" it is the central theme of the novel. It is not at all unreasonable to suppose that Knut Hamsun read "The Peasants" and was struck by the possibilities of the episode. It is not impossible that he saw a big epic theme in it, only sketchily and imperfectly developed by St. Reymont and that he decided to work it out adequately in a novel of his own.

ANOTHER SIMILARITY

I am more inclined to think this guess is correct because of another instance of almost verbatim similarity between the two novels. In the third book of "The Peasants" the farmer Bjorn, who is about to die, gathers earth in his leather apron and proceeds to sow it, thinking in delirium that it is grain. The act of sowing is given almost sacramental significance. It is not a mere scattering of seed for utilitarian purposes; it is a ceremony of high spiritual significance and it is described in a lyric tone that makes it very beautiful.

Now in "Growth of the Soil" there is a similar scene. On two occasions a description is given of Isak sowing wheat. In that case also it is no mere scattering of seed but a sacramental act of high spiritual significance and it is described much as St. Reymont described it and also in that same curious lyric tone. So much importance did Knut Hamsun attach to it that after having given the scene once he repeats it on the last page of the book as the proper note on which to close.

Developing an episode in one book into the main theme of another book is not unknown in literature. The episode of Paolo and Francesca in Dante's "Divine Comedy" has been developed by more than one poet into a play or poem, and Shakespeare sometimes took the germ of an idea found in some great work of art to develop it into another independent work of art. It is not to Knut Hamsun's discredit that he did this; he is in good company when he follows this method.

HOW TO KEEP BLONDE HAIR WELL GROOMED

BY ETHEL RALSTON, Motion Picture Actress.

If you are a blonde, you can neglect washing your hair, but tell me because it looks well-shedded, but it is a bit oily, no one is going to know the difference.

But if you are a blonde, you have to keep your hair beautifully washed and groomed or you are not at your best. I wash my hair regularly every week. Last this might remove too much of the natural oil of the hair. I precede every shampoo with an oil bath.

Tramp Worker Lodged in Jail After Alleged Attempt to Slash Baker's Back

Kaukauna—Bad liquor got the best of Will Mooney, a tramp worker from the vicinity of Sherwood, and Monday morning found Mooney a sadder but wiser man.

Saturday night Mooney was out celebrating something and in his attempts to get something to drink (stronger than the water which had been offered to him at several places) he stopped at Kalupa's bakery. Mooney entered and demanded strong drink of Ed. Kalupa who happened to be busy in the backroom at that time. Naturally Kalupa told Mooney that he was not handling moonshine and that his place of business was a bakery shop and not a soft drink emporium.

Mooney became abusive and threatened Kalupa, who paid no attention to him, thinking that the man was bluffing. Kalupa turned away and while stopping over to pick a object from his floor, Mooney drew a big pocket knife, it is alleged, and Kalupa arose just in time to catch Mooney's wrist and stop the deadly blow which had been aimed at him. Kalupa wrestled with Mooney but found he could not handle him and called for help. Several men who happened to be passing by at the time, entered the store and held Mooney until the police arrived. Officers Hitting and McCarty took Mooney to the city jail and he was to be arraigned Monday morning.

SMALL CROWDS AT
WEEKEND BATTLES

Bad Weather Keeps Fans from High School and American Legion Football Games

Kaukauna—Unpleasant weather detracted from the attendance at weekend football games here. Saturday's crowd at the game in which Kaukauna high school defeated Neenah, 13 to 0, was below expectations and the Legion-Depere game on Sunday, won by Kaukauna, 18-0, also was poorly attended.

The high school team was forced to exert itself to the limit to defeat Neenah. A few breaks in favor of the home team enabled it to score two touchdowns in the last half after Neenah had played the Electric City crew to a standstill during the remainder of the game.

Sunday's game was a different story, for Kaukauna had the ball in enemy territory most of the afternoon. The Legionaires were held scores in the first period but the unleashed a sharp attack in the final quarters and scored three touchdowns. A wet field made the going uncertain but the Legion squad showed brilliant teamwork. Smith, Legion backfield man, was injured during the game and was taken out.

Fire in Attic at Combined Locks Threatens House and Firemen's Life

Kaukauna—Quick and effective work on the part of the Kaukauna fire department saved the home of Cornelius Kersten, on the Combined Locks road, about 3 1/2 miles from Kaukauna, from being destroyed by a fire which started from defective wiring in the attic, which was so small that the firemen had to fight the fire from the outside. Another handicap was a tin roof that had been placed over the shingles and in order to get at the fire all the line had to be torn off. Chemicals were used to extinguish the fire because no water was available. Practically the whole roof was burned, but no other damage was caused.

One of the firemen, Henry Ester, had a narrow escape from electrocution when both his hands came in contact with a bare electric wire while he was crawling around in the attic. He managed to shake off the wires before he was injured.

Smith, Menasha, Breaks Ankle in Game Played on New London Grid

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Red and White warriors of New London high school walked over Menasha high school men to the extent of a 28-6 score Saturday afternoon, in a game played during a steady drizzle and on a muddy field.

The game, although a good one, was overcast. Menasha, standing no chance against the playing by the New London eleven. Numerous fans asserted after the contest that the Red and White had improved 100 per cent. Its passing, fake plays and end runs have not been equaled during the entire season. Ludwig was perhaps the star of the game, due to his interference. He took out his men every time, besides making laudable tackles. He was easily rivaled, however, by Hilson, Charlesworth and Bocher. The four players, Ludwig and Hilson in the line, and Charlesworth and Bocher in the backfield, are beginning to be justly called "New London's Four Horsemen." Several other men, among them members of the second squad, also performed in excellent manner.

Menasha fought hard every inch of the game. Smith, left halfback, suffered a broken right ankle during the last period of play. In a scrimmage two yards from his goal line, according to Coach Calder of Menasha, he had to be carried off the field.

SCORES AT START
New London scored her first touchdown 40 seconds after the game started. Charlesworth ran the ball down 30 yards, after he had received it when Menasha kicked to his 5-yard line. He then passed 30 yards to Hilson, who sprinted 35 yards for a touchdown. Local fans danced up and down in high glee, as this was the same play by which Michigan had taken the spirit out of Wisconsin in the first few seconds of play recently.

The remainder of the quarter was uneventful. Neither team was able to score, both trying the aerial game considerably, but to no advantage. The greater part of the second quarter was devoted to the same style of play, both teams attempting to gain ground by passing. Menasha also put considerable hopes on line plunges, but to no avail. She found out at the end of the quarter in possession of the ball on her own 5-yard line. In attempting a punt, Ludwig and Dent of New London broke through and tackled the Menasha punter behind his own goal line, scoring a safety for New London, and making the score 9-0 for the Red and White. The first half ended shortly after, with New London in possession of the ball on Menasha's 30-yard line. Menasha kicked at the opening of the second half. Selms, Red and White fullback, ran the ball back to the 60-yard line. New London finally advanced 10 yards, and was forced to punt. The Menasha player who received the punt on his 30-yard line slipped in the mud, and toppled over. Menasha then gained 5 yards through center, and punted. Land of New London, received on the halfway marker, and advanced to the 30-yard line.

BREAKS ANKLE
Charlesworth went around right end for 20 yards, with splendid backing in the way of interference. It was here that Smith of Menasha received a broken right ankle. New London then forced the ball to Menasha's 3-yard line. Charlesworth then went through center for 2 yards, then lost 2 yards and gained them again. Finally he went on a wide run around left end for a touchdown. Selms kicked goal and made the score 16 to 0. Menasha advanced the kickoff to the middle of the field, and gained 10 yards on a pass. Another pass netted her 20. The next play was another pass, a long one, over the top of the New London line, by Pierce, of Menasha, to Klutz, who scored the touchdown when he received the pass back of the goal line.

This was the first and only time during the game that Menasha came near scoring. The kick failed, and the score became 16 to 6. Cochrane of New London, received Menasha's kick, and was downed on the 60-yard line. Charlesworth went around left end for 20 yards. Land gained 10 around the other one, and New London was on her way for another score. She ended up on the 10-yard line, where she was penalized 5 yards by the referee. Charlesworth made 4 around left end, marking the end of the third quarter.

The break in the game at this point seemed to stop New London's lucky streak, for she failed to gain, and began passing again. Menasha grabbed one, and advanced, by a series of short runs, to the 50-yard line, where she in turn started to pass, only to have one intercepted by Selms of New London. Here the Red and White punted. Menasha receiving the punt on New London's 70-yard line.

Menasha fumbled, and Ludwig of New London grabbed it on Menasha's 30-yard line. The next play was a pass, Bocher to Hilson, for 15 yards. Hilson running the ball for 15 yards to a touchdown. The kick failed, and the score became 22 to 6.

Menasha received the kickoff on her own 40-yard line. Her first play was a pass, which was grabbed by Lang, of New London, who went around left end to Menasha's 20-yard line. Charlesworth then went around right end for 20 yards and a touchdown. The kick failed again, making the score 28 to 6, which it stood from then on, with only three minutes left to play. Coach Kohn then substituted his second stringers, who made a good showing against the southerners, even grabbing their passes and turning them into Red and White gains. The game ended when Dernbach intercepted a Menasha pass on the 60-yard line.

WOLFRATH SHOT
AFTER HE HAD
RESISTED COP

McLellan Tells Story of Jail Delivery Fracas—Prisoner in Hospital

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Ed Wolfrath was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton by Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer Saturday afternoon, for treatment of the wound suffered when he was shot by Police Officer Everett McLellan at midnight Friday.

According to Dr. Pfeiffer, Mr. Wolfrath's condition is excellent, and there will be no need for amputation of his left leg, the bone of which was shattered two inches above the knee by the officer's .38-caliber revolver. Reports were circulated in the city Saturday evening and Sunday to the effect that Wolfrath had died.

The detailed story of the shooting came out Saturday evening, when Officer McLellan and witnesses of the affair were interviewed. It has now been positively ascertained that Wolfrath was shot while resisting an officer. McLellan's own story of the affair is as follows:

CALL FIREMAN
"I was on night patrol on the north side of the river, in place of Officer Oshgar, who was ill. About midnight, as I was about to walk around behind the postoffice to punch the clock in the rear of the First National bank, I heard a racket inside of the postoffice building where the jail is located. I went around to the front door and found Wolfrath just coming out. I ordered him back in, and he reached down to pick up a prop which was nailed on the floor, and was used to hold the door. I then took him to the rear of the postoffice lobby and rang the fire alarm calling to Matt Nesbitt to come down with a key to the jail as Officer Oshgar had forgotten to give me his when I went on duty.

Wolfrath sat down on the steps, leaning up stairs, and asked me for a knife to cut his shirt. I didn't give it to him. I had drawn my gun when I got him inside, and still had it, intending to scare him into returning to jail. As Nesbitt started to come downstairs, Wolfrath jumped up and made for the front door again. I followed him, and we reached the door together. Wolfrath pushed me aside with one hand and opened the door with the other, exclaiming while he went, 'I wasn't shot! You damn't shoot!' I followed him through the door, as I saw him in front of Drayner's drug store, running as fast as he could, through not very straight, and I called to him twice to stop, and when he didn't, I opened fire. I shot twice. The first time I missed him purposely, but I intentionally hit him low the second. I shot low, so that I would not kill him. He fell to a sitting posture on the sidewalk, looking at me, his eyes bulging out of his head, I walked over to him, and told him to get up. He said that his leg was broken and that's all he would say. I simply did my duty in shooting the man, though I'm sorry it was necessary."

SAW TUSSELE
Matt Nesbitt, driver of the fire department, was closest to being an actual witness of the shooting, though he did not see the shots fired. He states that the officer shot only after Wolfrath had resisted him. He testifies that when he came downstairs, he saw Wolfrath heading for the door, and saw him shove McLellan to one side to get out. He heard the shots outside, and running out to see what had happened, saw Wolfrath sitting on the sidewalk.

Wolfrath obtained his escape from the jail by enlarging a hole which had been made in the ceiling of the jail by Clarence Roseau, 17, who broke jail a short time ago. Upon crawling through the hole, Wolfrath fastened a transom rope to a support, and by this means let himself down over the partition between the jail and so-called "tramp room." He dropped 20 feet to the floor, landing in a sink in a room adjoining the jail. He then found no difficulty in making his own successful escape from the building.

Officer McLellan carried no club, and consequently had only his revolver as a means of upholding law and order.

City officials, when interviewed on Saturday, refused to comment upon the shooting. Mayor Wendlandt responded with the statement, "I have no comment to make until all of the facts are before me."

STAGE AND SCREEN

MONSTERS OF PAST AGE RELIVE IN FILM

A drama of 10,000,000 years ago was enacted for a 1925 picture screen during the filming of "The Lost World," which required First National and Waterson R. Rothacker over seven years to produce. The picture is being shown at the Elite.

Two hungry prehistoric dinosaurs of the allosaurus species were out looking for breakfast. Bessie Love, Wallace Beery and Lewis Stone who, in the photoplay tell the monsters of the Jurassic period still alive in South America, saw them—and scurried for a cave. From this place of safety they watched the fearsome meat-eaters, each as big as five or six elephants.

The reptilian giants came upon what they thought was a lone baby triceratops. This youngster was about the size of one elephant and the carnivorous dinosaurs decided he would do very well for the first course.

The allosaurus pounced upon the young triceratops using their foot, long claws and teeth as big as a man's wrist.

Then they discovered this baby was not alone!

Mamma triceratops came tearing into the scene, the earth quaking under her tons of infuriated flesh, for she was also as big as five or six elephants.

The triceratops species of dinosaur was a vegetarian and did not have the teeth of the meat-eaters, or the claws. But nature had endowed Mamma triceratops with something more valuable in a conflict that long teeth and claws. Over her eyes she wore two long, vicious horns or tusks and a shorter one over her nose.

As Mamma Triceratops charged up, the allosaurus had killed the baby and were about to begin their repast. With one fell toss of her head she goaded one allosaurus—and his career on earth was ended! The other beat a hasty retreat, and being a swifter moving dinosaur than triceratops, had no difficulty in making his escape.

This is only one conflict between mighty monsters of the dim past that Bessie Love, Beery and Stone witness while inhabitants of "The Lost World." As Sir Arthur Conan Doyle wrote the novel of romance and adventure, life remains unchanged in the area for 100,000 centuries.

Lionel Barrymore's genius shines in "I Am the Man"

Rarely on local screens have we seen a picture that was as highly entertaining, as gripping, as "I Am the Man." Lionel Barrymore's latest production, at the New Bijou Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

No effort, no technique, no subtlety, seems beyond the power of this great actor to express. Whatever the demands of his part, he fulfills it with ability seldom seen in any of the other much-vaunted stars of the screen.

"I Am the Man" is a vehicle particularly suited for Mr. Barrymore's genius; and Chadwick Pictures Corporation, the producers, evinced much astuteness in the selection of this story for him. We recommend that all see this picture.

Mr. Barrymore is supported by an extremely capable cast. Seena Owen plays with great feeling and charm.

A number of persons from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Joseph Bolton Friday.

An amazing experience—sleeping around our dying camp fires, we were shot out of our slumbers by the most frightful cries, as ear splitting as a gigantic whistle, but deeper and more vibrant. She left Seattle June 3, 1922 and has, most of the time since, been drifting helplessly in northern ice. The Maud hoped to accomplish what Commander MacMillan in the Bowdoin I early expedition hopes to accomplish—discover a new arctic continent, and perhaps drift across the pole. She failed in both ambitions, according to radio messages. Inset is Captain Oscar Westing.

BAKER, ACQUITTED OF WIFE MURDER, VISITS IN WEST

Berlin Chiropractor Will Spend Winter With Relatives in Montana and North Dakota

Berlin—Victor H. Baker, erstwhile chiropractor of this city, who was acquitted Saturday morning in Oshkosh of a charge of murdering his wife Gertrude Hess Baker, in a pine grove near Fremont last June, spent Saturday evening here as a guest of his attorney, B. J. Paul, former prosecutor of Green Lake county.

Playing on the floor of the living room with Mr. Paul's two small children, Baker presented a vastly different picture from the role which he has played for three weeks sitting in the Winnebago county courthouse facing a possible life sentence behind the gray walls of Waupun.

PLANS WESTERN TRIP

"I envy you all of this, Mr. Paul," the young man said, straightening up from the floor with the youngsters. "You certainly are a lucky man with your nice home, your loving wife and your beautiful children. I don't believe even you appreciate them as I do now, for you."

Baker intends to leave Berlin soon for an automobile trip to the Montana fruit farm of his brother, Clarence, who has been firm with him for the last eight weeks. The firm is in Missoula, Mont. It was an automobile trip to California, which was just ahead, a belated honeymoon, when the tragedy occurred near Fremont.

WILL VISIT PARENTS

After a few weeks with his brother home in North Dakota, visiting other relatives, he expects to go on to his father's relatives there before he returns here late in the winter or in a next spring.

What is to become of the insurance on Gertrude Hess Baker's life has not been decided. In the course of the trial, Baker's attorneys set forth that Baker did not believe it the time of his wife's death that more than one $5,000 policy was in effect. This had a double indemnity clause making it worth $10,000 in case of a accidental death. All told there was nearly $25,000 insurance on Mrs. Baker's life, but technicalities clouded part of it to be ineffective. Further court action may be ahead before the policy claims are settled but Baker, who is too happy in his freedom and too desirous of a chance to leave from the strain to care to consider more court procedure.

Washington "Seers" Not Ashamed Of Their Trade

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEW SERVICE WRITER

Washington—Washington is America's only city of importance where fortune telling, in its various forms, goes on regularly, professionally, openly and uninterfered with by the law.

Since society is unnecessary and publicity pays in the realm of the occult is in most other fields, the fortune tellers, inventive in the news papers or otherwise.

Consequently it is possible here which it isn't where they must operate under cover to form some idea as to their number.

Exact figures to be sure are unavailable. Suffice it to say however that the community is surprisingly large and the capitalists, seers and seersesses, Mme. Marcell, probably the best known, is a victim of the fact that she had ready access to the White House during part of two administrations, as practitioner of astrology extraordinary to the then first ladies in the land.

"Oh, if I only had an education," she remarked during a talk I had with her one day.

Mme. Marcell, practiced mediumship in her youth and admits that she found the spirits extremely unreliable. "But the stars," she says, "want to be."

The question arises: "To what extent do spiritual, astrological and other occult suggestions influence government policies and decisions, executive legislative and judicial?"

Not more, I imagine, Mme. Marcell, is true, except of numerous government officials, among her clients, but she's vague as to names, and I assume that, in this respect, she exaggerates a bit. Prof. Marcus Le-

Marr, "Washington's famous medium," agrees with me.

"I sincerely wish," he told me, "that I could honestly assure you we run the whole government, but the idea is ridiculous. Your typical politician is the last man I'd pick as susceptible to any influence but his own last interests. Spirits? Pooh! To influence a politician you need something a lot more concrete—something he can see and feel will do him some good, like a bunch of votes."

Prof. La Marr is one of the most interesting individuals I ever met. Unless his clients demand it imperatively he isn't a charlatan at all, but a very capable psychologist who'd class as a scientist if he could make it pay.

But to live as my tastes require," he explained to me, "I have to do this."

Yet occasionally to his own disadvantage, the man of science in him tears loose.

"How the hell," I heard him exclaim fretfully one day, to a deliver into the future who had consulted him, "can I tell you what you're going to do? I'm telling you what you're fitted for. You have to do it yourself."

As a practitioner of the almost legitimate, in the occult circles of Washington, Prof. La Marr easily takes the lead. He's successful, too, in his way, but too honest to be what he might.

Then, by degrees, we taper down to the gypsies, who read palms and tea leaves and the cards. They also make livings—not fancy incomes, but pretty fair. It seems incredible, but thousands of people pay good money to hear their bunk.

TWO MEN KILLED IN WRECK OF PULPWOOD CRANE

SECOND MAN IN ACCIDENT DIES EARLY SUNDAY

Workman Unable to Remove Henry Knaack's Body from Wreckage Until 6:30 Saturday

Peter J. Ambrosius, 723 E. Calumet st., employe of the Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. whose entire body was burned early Saturday afternoon when a pulpwood crane on which he was working tipped off the railroad track and rolled down the embankment into a tallrace north of the Lawrence College athletic field killing Henry Knaack, 1100 N. Lemnawast, a fellow workman, succumbed to his injuries at 2:15 Sunday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

Knaack was imprisoned under the wreckage and died about 3:30 Saturday afternoon, two hours after the crane tipped over. Workmen were not able to free the body until almost 6:30 that afternoon after a wrecking team had arrived from Green Bay.

WALKS TO CAR
Despite his severe injuries Ambrosius was able to crawl from under the crane and walk to a car which had been rushed to the scene. Little hope was ever held for his recovery, however, because of the severity of his burns.

The men were operating a crane which was picking up logs which were piled on one side of the tracks and dropping them into the tallrace on the other side.

No one seems to know the exact cause of the wreck, although workmen are of the opinion that the operators of the crane may have attempted to pick up too large a load. It was also said that neither Ambrosius or Knaack were experienced crane operators. The accident was not due to spreading of the rails, an examination showed.

FALLS UNDER BOILER
Both men were burned by steam escaping from the boiler after the crane tipped. Knaack's predicament was made much worse by the fact that he was not only under the crane, unable to escape but part of his body was against the hot boiler.

The accident attracted many people on their way to Lawrence College athletic field to witness the homecoming game between Lawrence and Ripon colleges.

Workmen labored frantically in an effort to release Knaack, but their attempts were of little avail. Not only were they unable to move the crane the least bit, but it soon became apparent it would be almost impossible to free Knaack soon enough to save his life.

Knaack was conscious during the greater part of the two hours he lived after the crane tipped. He talked a little with his rescuers and seemed to realize his fate.

When it became evident that he could not be released soon, doctors injected drugs into him to lessen his pain. He grew weaker continually, however, and doctors pronounced him dead about 3:30.

A call for a wrecking train was sent to Green Bay almost immediately after the mishap occurred, but even after the train arrived the crane could not be budged. It was necessary to separate the crane from the foundation before Knaack's body could be extricated. This was accomplished at 6:30.

Ambrosius, who was 34 years old, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ambrosius, De Pere, his widow, three children, Norbert, Evelyn and Loretta; four sisters, Miss Annie Ambrosius, De Pere, Mrs. John Diederich, Oneshia, Mrs. Paul Knaack, De Pere; Mrs. Ed Bagel, Green Bay.

The funeral will be conducted at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from Sacred Heart church, with the Rev. F. L. Ruessmann in charge. Interment will be made in St. Paul cemetery.

Knaack was 22. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anna Knaack, Nararino, one sister, Mrs. H. O. Wolff, this city; seven brothers, Fred, Appleton, Ervin and Raymond, Milwaukee; Harold, Earl, Lester and Walter Nararino.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Walter Horn, 1100 Lemnawast, and at 2 o'clock from the First English Lutheran church. The Rev. P. C. Reuter will conduct the services. Interment will be made in Riverside cemetery.

120 TONS OF CABBAGE SHIPPED AT MACKVILLE
Exactly 120 tons of cabbage were delivered to the Soo line depot at Mackville last Friday by farmers from that territory. The crop is reported to be unusually good in all parts of the country this fall. As much of the crop as can be handled is shipped at once. The remainder is stored in a warehouse for later shipment.

Farmers of that vicinity are desirous that the railroad company build a stockyard at Mackville. They are now required to bring their cattle to this city for shipment. A movement to ask the railroad company to build a stockyard there is now underway.

Dorothy Adsit Starred In "Big Time" vaudeville Skit

A number of Appleton people who attended the homecoming at Madison this last weekend enjoyed another feature in the appearance of Miss Dorothy Adsit of Appleton at the Orpheum as a solo dancer "Dream Girl" in the skit "Danse Voyage." Miss Adsit is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Adsit, 208 W. Prospect st.

Miss Adsit's dramatic ability caused much comment at Lawrence College last year, where she was a freshman. She played the feminine lead in "Three Sheets To The Wind," Tormentor's first annual production and appeared in a great number of skits, acts, and operettas. She also has a variety of dramatic and musical experience in the Appleton high school.

A short time before the school closed last spring, Miss Adsit journeyed to Milwaukee, where she was granted a trial on the stage. She was given a place on a troupe of eight girls, going to Chicago on trial. Now "big time" in Orpheum Circuit dance acts is her program.

Her act opened in Milwaukee the first part of August, played in Chicago and then started a tour of the country. The Wright dancers with whom Miss Adsit is appearing, are noted for the high quality of their acts.

Six acts are directed by Mrs. Wright, traveling the Orpheum Circuit throughout. They are dance acts, characterized by exquisite costumes and settings. Besides her feature solo dance, the Appleton girl appears as a Spanish dancing girl and in the chorus of other parts of the program.

DEATH SOLVES QUEER MYSTERY OF CZAR'S SPY

Secret Agent of Nicholas Posed as One of Leaders of Russian Revolution

Berlin. —(AP)— The mystery about Eugene Asew, famous spy of the late Czar of Russia has been solved by Arthur Knappfeller, according to his revelations in the Berliner Tageblatt. To the world at large Eugene Asew was known as one of the principal leaders of the Russian revolution until he was finally unmasked by the Russian historian Vladimir Buzew, as a secret Russian agent and as such a revolutionary instigator.

At a secret revolutionary tribunal held by the leaders of the branch association of emigrants in London in 1909 Asew was sentenced to death. The condemned spy, however, was now to be found anywhere despite the most diligent search by the secret Russian societies in all countries. He seemed to have vanished into space.

It now has been learned that Asew died in Berlin in 1913. He lived for a time in the west end of Berlin under the assumed name of Keil Neumayer. Equipped with a passport he traveled aimlessly through the near East of Europe continually fearing discovery by the powerful secret organizations of Russia. He then disappeared in the German provinces, travelling from one small town to another.

In 1915 Asew was arrested in Berlin as a suspicious Russian. In response to his request, he was not put into an internment camp, but was kept in various prisons. After the peace of Brest-Litovsk he was set free and died soon after from general collapse. In his position as secret agent for the Czar, Asew was obliged to remain a member of the secret revolutionary organization until he was discovered to be a bona fide agent by the police. It was his duty even to assume a leading role in establishing a revolutionary reign of terror and then to denounce some revolutionary coup to the police shortly before its consummation.

Kneupper characterizes Asew as one of the most dramatic characters of the last 25 years of Russian history.

Anna Ruse, 11, granddaughter of Mrs. Rush Winslow, 223 E. Lawrence st., narrowly escaped serious injury shortly before noon Saturday when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car driven by Mrs. Lothar Graef, 314 E. College-ave in front of All Saints church on E. College-ave. The little girl escaped with a few minor injuries, consisting of cuts and bruises and a small gash in her head. She was able to return to school Monday morning.

Anna had just jumped on her bicycle and was starting out from the curb, going west on College-ave, when the car driven by Mrs. Graef, and going in the same direction, struck the rear wheel of the bicycle. The girl was thrown to the pavement between the front wheels of the car, but as Mrs. Graef was not driving fast, she was able to bring her machine to a stop almost immediately. Her car did not touch the girl, the latter receiving her injuries from the fall. Mrs. Graef took Anna to a doctor and then to the home of Mrs. Winslow.

Psychologist Declares World Can't Get Along With "Nothing but the Truth"

Honolulu. —(AP)— Falsehoods are necessary to the maintenance of civilization, in the opinion of Dr. Herbert Goddard, psychologist of the University of Ohio, as expressed in a talk before a large gathering at the Nuuanu Y. M. C. A.

People could not live together if the world adhered to the principle of "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," he added. "We could not have a group of people, consequently no cities, towns or communities, if we told the truth all the time. We must tell lies. We have to be honest, but at times it is necessary for us to lie for the welfare of the community."

He illustrated his conviction by re-

J. E. HILL, ONCE MENASHA MAYOR, DIES SATURDAY

Noted Masonic Worker and Papermill Superintendent, Is Dead of Acute Indigestion

Menasha—Joseph Earl Hill, 67, former mayor of Menasha and prominent in state Masonic circles, died of acute indigestion Saturday evening at his home, 342 N. Main-st. He was taken ill the previous afternoon while about his duties at the plant of the Gilbert Paper company with which he had been connected for more than a quarter of a century. Mr. Hill had an eventful career. He was born in Trenton, N. J., and in early life enlisted in Troop I, Seventh Cavalry, U. S. A., and took an active part in the Custer campaign in South Dakota. After severing his connection with the army he entered the employment of the Omaha railroad in the capacity of engineer, a position he held for several years. From railroading he turned his attention to lumbering and for a number of years held a responsible position with the Valley Lumber company of Eau Claire, in which city he made his headquarters. Prior to coming to Menasha in 1908, he served the Standard Oil Co. as traveling engineer for several years. During the 27 years Mr. Hill had made his residence in Menasha he was connected with the Gilbert Paper company first in one capacity and then another, working himself up to a director of the company and superintendent of maintenance at the time of his death. Mr. Hill was generally known throughout the state because of his connections with the Masonic order. At the time of his death he was ambassador of Triphelp Temple, Milwaukee, and president of the local Shrine club. He was past master of the John A. Bryan lodge of Menasha, past master of the Eau Claire lodge, past commander of Twin City commandery Knights Templar. He also was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. He served the city as mayor in 1910 and 1911. Mr. Hill is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. S. R. Johnson, Chicago; three sons, Richard, Earl and Gilbert, Menasha; and two grandsons, Richard Johnson, Chicago, and Gilbert Hill, Jr., Menasha. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home on N. Main-st. and will be conducted by the Rev. A. E. JAPAN SCHOOLS CONTEST HAWAIIAN LANGUAGE LAW

Honolulu—(AP)—Revision of regulations adopted by the territorial school commission appears to have made no material change in the attitude of the 85 litigating Japanese language schools. The modification which permits an eight year course by eliminating the former requirement that attendants at a foreign language school must have completed the first two grades of a public school, has been characterized by attorneys for the litigants as a step in the right direction toward bringing about an amicable adjustment of the controversy. The 85 schools are inactive, having closed their doors to avoid being fined for non-payment of the annual fee at the rate of $1 a pupil. There is in preparation a suit to enjoin the territorial officials from enforcing the provisions of the alien language law, as amended by the legislature of 1925. Thirty schools having complied with the territorial requirements are operating.

I knelt down beside Jack. Automatically, we both held our hands in the candle's light. I was nauseated. Ruth, as Jack said in wed tones: "Someone was badly hurt. That was blood on the novel's best. I wonder how it got there."

"Someone rushed past me down stairs as I stood in Zoe's door," I said, and then I told him how I had come into the nursery and then Zoe's room and found it empty.

"Any God? Do you suppose it was Zoe who has hurt?" Did the person that passed you have her in his arms?"

"I don't know," I replied. "I was terribly frightened. I only know that a man brushed past me so close I could have touched him."

"Where is Syd? How can he sleep through all this?" asked Jack suddenly, remembering that Syd was our house guest. Then he called him loudly: "Syd, Oh Syd!"

There was no answer. Not being able to arouse Syd seemed to worry Jack. He looked as though he did not know what to do next.

With a sudden flare the lights came on. Evidently the chauffeur had quickly found the break. This seemed to stir Jack's brain, for he pulled out the drawer that contained my jewels. It was empty.

"Well, I guess those damn pearls are gone this time for good. They certainly can cause more trouble than I ever knew could be caused by inanimate things."

"The breaks in both wires are mended," said Jack.

Jack and I looked up and found Benson clothed and in his conventional English butler mind again.

"The wires were both cut, sir, close to the house," he said. "Davon seemed to know immediately where it was, and he has repaired them."

"That's a little strange," said Jack to himself.

"Why?" I asked.

"What should our chauffeur know about our house arrangements? His quarters are over the garage. You know, he does not even eat his meals in the servant's dining room. He told me he preferred to board himself."

"Let's look at the newel post," Jack said to me.

Benson deferentially handed me an old Spanish shawl that I use on the piano and I twisted it about me. My prebend night dress was a sight to behold because I had wiped my bloody hand on it.

As we went into the hall in the bright light which Benson had turned on all over the house we saw through the drawing room door, that the French window on the far side was flung wide.

Jack rushed quickly toward it, and was going through when, Benson said: "I would not go out there, sir, until morning. You would only make other tracks about the place. The police ought to be here soon. I have telephoned for them."

Adventures Of The Twins

The Cross Roads

The Twins went along the path to the Land of Wonders, looking this way and that for the lost money bags. At last they came to a sign which said "Cross Roads" so they stopped to decide which direction to go.

"Well, to north," said Nick.

"So off they started."

"Ouch!" said a voice. "Get off!"

The children stopped and looked around, but could see no one. So off they started again.

"Ouch!" said a voice. "Get off," said the same voice again.

Again the children stopped. But still not a soul was to be seen.

"You're on my nose! Get off!" said the voice still more loudly.

"Who—who are you and where are you?" asked Nick. "We don't see anybody."

"I'm one of the cross roads," said the voice. "I don't mean to be cross, but I can't help it with people walking right on my nose all the time!"

The Twins jumped aside and there sure enough was a face on the ground. They had been standing right on the poor road's nose.

"Of all things!" said Nancy. "In the whole Land of Wonders, you are the most—most—"

"Unusual," said the cross road not quite so crossly. "I don't mind you saying it. But we cross roads have a terrible time of it. People walk right over us and say, 'My, isn't this old road bumpy!' They never consider our feelings. Those bumps are our ears and noses and eyes — and once I had a bo! Jiminy!" said the poor cross road. "How I suffered! Every time someone stepped on it or drove over it, he said, 'Ouch' because he got a bump. Can you imagine how I felt?"

"We'll go the other way," said Nick. "We'll go south."

"Oh don't," said the cross road. "That's my brother and he's crosser still. As for the east and west roads, they are perfectly furious if you so much as look at them."

"Then where shall we go?" asked Nancy. "We can't stay here."

"That's so," said the cross road. "Let me see. It's not so bad once you get over my face. When you are on my arms or legs, I don't mind. And if you walk over so light ly, I'll close my eyes and hold my breath and stand it."

"Thank you!" said the Twins.

So the cross road which had turned into a very kind obliging road, let them go over it.

"I'm all right now," it said when the trip was over. "Goodbye and good luck!"

"Goodbye," called the Twins as they skipped along.

"I wonder what time it is," said Nick.

"It's high time," said a clock in a tower, turning its hands rapidly.

"Very high time!" I'm so high, no body can see what time it is!"

Nancy laughed. "I should say you were fast time," she said. "You've gone about sixty hours since we are fixed a minute ago."

"I'm not going—I'm coming," said the clock.

"Then we'll be going," laughed the Twins. "And if you see any lost money bags around, tell them it's high time to go home!"

SATURDAY'S GAMES
LAWRENCE 3, RIPON 0.
Beloit 7, Knox 2.
Carroll 6, Lake Forest 0. (non-conference.)

RIPPING up Ripon on college the entire second half of the homecoming battle here Saturday afternoon Coach Mark Catlin's Blue won the game and sent over 4,000 loyal rosters home happy. Nason, Boettcher and Briese piled up yardage as the lighter blue line held the foe.

NASON IS STAR

Nason, substituting because of the slippery field which was it thought would spoil his runs, came through in great style while he was in the game, piling up much of Lawrence's yardage. He and Capt. Briese hit the line and shot around the ends for large gains and Nason added several more on the receiving end of passes. This attack and great line plunging by Boettcher, husky Blue back, brought the light to score distance. Nason's second try for a dropkick a few minutes later was missed by so narrow a margin that the officials had to confer on the spot. Nason's only chance to score came near the close of the first half, when plunges by the heavy Red backs on a slippery portion of the field carried the light Blue line off its feet. When the Lawrence boys led their backs to the wall, Olson's 25 yard try for a dropkick failed and Blues were safe.

NEW END UNCOVERED

Briese and Nason were the biggest ground gainers for Lawrence and Boettcher played a nice game. The big fullback made several nice plunges and his work as a "one-man" interference was great. He carried his lighter backs along behind him, pushing aside Ripon men at will to clear a path. Hipke at center broke through the Red line time and again to get men and Counsel also worked well. The entire Blue line looked better than ever this year. Coach Catlin uncovered another star at end in Ashman and now will have little to worry about at the wing posts. Shifting his lineup at the last minute to get a good combination he sent Ashman into his first game as a regular and the Appleton boy earned a first-team berth. He got tackle after tackle on punts and his close following of the ball enabled him to recover a Red fumble and also to down his own man's punt before it had a chance to cross the Red goal line at one stage of the game.

STAMM OUTPACES BLUES

McGourn and Olson played a good game for Ripon in the backfield, and Hope, Red end, tackled well and starred on the receiving end of Olson's and Stamm's long throws. Stamm, who was called back from tackle to punt averaged 40 to 50 on his boots. One of the prettiest plays of the game was when Stamm, standing in the shadows of his own goal posts threw a 30-yard pass to Olson, carrying the ball into midfield.

Lawrence homecoming ceremonies were started by marches led by Ripon and Lawrence bands. The Ripon delegation was led by its band over John-st bridge. They occupied the west section on the south side of the field. Lawrence band paraded up and down the field led by Mike Steinhauer, drum major of the Appleton artillery band, who was in Lawrence uniform. George A. Whiting, donor of the new George A. Whiting athletic field, took a seat in the president's box. Ripon won the toss and chose to defend the west goal.

AL RUSSELL

Al Russell, known as the Paul Bernhardt of Wisconsin who meets Jack Zwick, Kaukauna slugger in the semi-final Thursday night. Russell has a record of ten straight knockouts and shaded Jack once before. Jack intends to get his revenge Thursday as well as set a new start that will put him in good with his friends once more, but Russell will give him all he can do to win. Milwaukee promoters say.

The wind held the ball back. The game was stopped at the left side of the line. Bahr tore through right tackle for three yards. Bahr slipped through right guard for four yards. On a crossback Ripon gained two yards and then Lawrence lost five more for offside. It was Ripon's ball on the Lawrence 32-yard line. Stamm piled up over center for two yards and first down. Ripon was threatening the Lawrence goal. The Blue line broke through and stopped Ripon without a gain. A short pass, McGourn to Olson was good for five yards. Olson hit right end for three yards. The Lawrence stands were yelling to the team to "hold 'em." Bahr smashed through center for four yards and first down on the Lawrence 22-yard line.

The game's first trips were using the slippery field to take the Lawrence men off their feet. Hipke stopped Bahr at the scrimmage line, McGourn broke through for two yards and the Ripon stands howled for a touchdown. Steenland stopped McGourn without gain. The Lawrence line is fighting hard with its back to the wall. Olson dropped back to the 26-yard line but his drop kick went off to the right side of the Lawrence goal post. On the first play Briese punted to Olson who came back for yards putting the ball on the Lawrence 42-yard line. Hipke stopped a Ripon mash at center after a three-yard gain, as the ball ended. Score Lawrence 0, Ripon 0.

Between halves, the freshmen put on a bicycle polo exhibition. The Lawrence players came back with resin on their hands. Stryzowski kicked off to Nason who returned the ball to Lawrence 35-yard line. On the first play Nason tore around right end for 16 yards. He sidestepped two Ripon tacklers on the play. Briese hit the line for a yard. Lawrence was trying an open formation. Boettcher was pilled up at the right side of the line. Zussmann replaced Bloemer at quarter as the half started. Nason hit right tackle for four yards. Briese punted to Olson and Ashman threw him on the Ripon 6-yard line. Stamm punted out from behind his goal line to Zussmann who took the ball on Ripon's 30-yard line. On the first play Zussmann passed over the line for 12 yards and first down on Ripon's 18-yard line. Briese fell in attempting to capture a long pass from Zussmann and Ott intercepted the ball. It was Ripon's ball on its own 10-yard line. Lawrence lost a nice chance to score. On the first play both teams were offside. Stamm punted from behind his goal line to Zussmann but Capt. Hauser muffed him on Ripon's 44-yard line. Boettcher was stopped at left guard. Nason got a 10-yard pass over the line to Briese who shook off three tacklers and went one more yard to Ripon's 20-yard line. Nason was pilled up with a two-yard gain at right end. Lawrence was using a sword formation. Zussmann passed over right end to Briese for a 61-yard gain and the ball is on Ripon's 10-yard line. Briese was thrown out of bounds on the play. Lawrence stands are yelling for a touchdown. Capt. Briese called his men back for a consultation. A pass from Zussmann was grounded over the goal line when Olson blocked Briese. Olson was hurt on the play. The ball grounded behind Ripon's goal line and Ripon was given the ball on its own 20-yard line. Ripon was conferring on a new play. Lawrence lost its second chance to score within five minutes. Counsel piled up McGourn at the line. Another line plunge was halted without an inch of gain. Stamm punted to Zussmann who was tackled on the Ripon 45-yard line. He was thrown out of bounds on the play. Stryzowski broke through and stopped Nason behind the scrimmage line but Bart wriggled through for three yards. Boettcher made a yard through left guard. Hope came through and tackled Nason for a five-yard loss. Nason attempted a pass. Briese punted to Olson who was downed on the Ripon 18-yard line.

Ott tore through the line and stopped Ripon with a two-yard loss. Ripon was stopped at the line and on a fumble Briese recovered the ball on Ripon's 20-yard line. It took about a minute to decide who had the ball. On the first play a long pass from Zussmann was grounded. Nason was stopped, fumbled the ball but recovered. Boettcher hit center for a yard. Lawrence is in a perfect position for a drop or place kick. Hipke wiped off Nason's kicking shoe and Nason sent a perfect drop kick from the 30-yard line over the goal post. Lawrence sent wild and the Lawrence hand played "There'll be a hot time tonight." The Blue has outplayed the Red the entire half. Stryzowski kicked out of bounds and the ball was brought back to be kicked over. Stryzowski again kicked off, and Nason returned the pigskin to the Lawrence 30-yard line. Nason fought his way around right end for two yards. The third quarter ended with the ball on Lawrence 32-yard line. Lawrence 3, Ripon 0.

FOURTH QUARTER
Boettcher was stopped at the scrimmage line. Briese punted to Olson on Ripon's 40-yard line, and when he fumbled, Ashman, who had been following the ball closely, all afternoon recovered the oval. BIG TEN SQUADS PLAY EAST TEAMS

Michigan and Illinois, Competitors Saturday, Clash With Navy and Pennsylvania

Chicago (AP)—Midwest Football interest this week shifts from the colorful Western Conference campaign to intercollegiate games for which the leading eleven are preparing.

Michigan, which kept its goal line unviolated and tightened its grip on the conference pinnacle by downing Illinois, has Benny Friedman its ace and his cohorts, virtually unjured for a week of grooming for the Navy at Ann Arbor.

With hopes of attaining Big Ten honors blasted, "Red" Grange and his Illinois are looking toward the game with Pennsylvania in Philadelphia as a refuge from their pursuing nemesis of defeat. Notre Dame, cheered by its win over Minnesota is getting set to play Georgia Tech.

Chicago, trailing Iowa and Michigan in the Big Ten standing and beside them, the only other undefeated team is an anticipating and easy afternoon with Purdue.

Smarting under its loss to Tulane, Northwestern is getting back in shape for Indiana.

Coach Spears' Minnesotans who fought hard against Notre Dame for three periods and lost in the fourth, are preparing for their entry into the conference lists against Wisconsin.

BRITTON SHOWING UP STRONG AS LINEMAN

Earl Britton, who first gained fame in the Illinois backfield, is doing nicely at guard this fall. Coach Zuppke made the big fellow over into a lineman because of a shortage of capable front trench materials. And Britton has made good with a vengeance, though the change weakened the backfield more than a little.

through the right side of the line. Behind perfect interference, Briese plowed through the line for 24 yards and first down on the Ripon 28-yard line. Pete was on the ground two but arose and shook off practically the entire backfield.

Ripon took this out. Zussmann's pass from a fake formation was muffed. Zussmann made two yards and Lawrence lost five for offside. Briese made two yards at right guard. Boettcher hit left guard for three yards. Nason dropped back and booted a nice kick which just missed the goal posts. The officials conferred as to whether it was good. Ripon took the ball, however, on its 20-yard line. McGourn shot a 15-yard pass to Olson but he dropped a perfect throw. Stamm punted to Zussmann who dodged three men to carry the ball back to the Lawrence 48-yard line. Nason was laid out tackle.

Boettcher made two yards at left guard. Lawrence is using the Iowa shift. Nason cut around left tackle for five yards. Briese followed Nason around left end for five yards and first down. Briese tore through right guard for another four yards. The Lawrence backfield is hitting on all fours with fine interference. Nason was tackled at the scrimmage line on the next play, however. With Boettcher running perfect interference, Nason went around left end for 14 yards and another first down. Nason, veteran Ripon center, was laid out on the play. Carl Bayer, brother of Les Bayer was substituted for Steenland at right tackle for Lawrence. On the first play after game was resumed Briese tore through an open field for five yards. Boettcher hit the right side of the line for a yard, but the ball slipped from his hands when he fell, and Ripon recovered.

Bahr was stopped without gains. Stamm threw a pass for 40-yards to Hope who was tackled on his own 20-yard line. Ripon then made a yard at right end. On a fake play McGourn threw a pass, but it was intercepted. McGourn threw a 23-yard pass which Briese intercepted on his 44-yard line. Nason tore off right tackle for four yards. Bloemer went in at quarter for Zussmann. Zussmann had been playing a nice game.

Nason cut off a yard after a yard. Boettcher tore a big hole through the left guard for a gain of five yards. Nason blocked to Ripon's 10-yard line where the two Lawrence ends fell on the ball. Ripon's ball is on its own 10-yard line.

Boettcher sent a yard at left end. Ott is hurt on a long pass from the back of his goal posts which looked good but Nason blocked it. Stamm punted from his 5-yard line and Bloemer took a badly bounding ball only to be tackled by Hope on Lawrence's 27-yard line. Bloemer fumbled on the first play but recovered without a gain. It looked bad for Lawrence for a second. Nason lost a yard at right end on a sweeping run. Boettcher smashed the center of the Red line for a gain of four yards. Nason punted out of bounds on the Ripon 45-yard line. Teska sent back into the game at left guard for Ripon replacing Stryzowski.

Ripon took time out to wipe off the ball. The drizzle was steady. A long pass from McGourn was intercepted by Briese. Briese carried the ball back five yards and out of bounds as the final whistle blew, ending the game with Lawrence 3, Ripon 0.

Green Bay—Despite a cold and driving rain on a field drenched by several hours continuous downpour, West High and Appleton played a valley conference football game here Saturday, and the Purple won 3 to 0. The score however, does not indicate how badly the West siders outplayed their opponents. Appleton had a big husky team, which outweighed West about 10 pounds to the man, giving them considerable advantage on a muddy field, yet they only made one first down. However, the visitors fought hard when down in the shadow of their own goal post and frequently held the purple when a touchdown seemed evident.

The game was featured by the stellar kicking of DeCoster, who gained 20 yards on every exchange of punts and as a result nearly the entire game was played within Appleton's 30 yard line. The Purple's passing combination of Brunette to Quinn and Brunette to Cole starred. The entire West high line played a great game, the work of Radick and Blumman outstanding. Probably the high spot in the work of the West side was fierce tackling.

The Purple scored shortly after the start of the second quarter on a neat place kick from the 30-yard marker by Capt. Radick. On one occasion during the first half, the Purple lost the ball on their opponents one yard line by an incomplete pass over the goal. On another occasion a 15-yard penalty when two yards from the goal cost a score. At another time the Purple back went over the line, but the play was recalled and West set back 5-yards for being offside. Besides these opportunities, several attempts at field goals were tried, one of which struck the upright and bounded out. The lineup for the teams:

BIG THREE OF EAST ALL TRIMMED NOW

New York (AP)—The Big Three of eastern football has become a misnomer in the 1925 college gridiron campaign. Princeton Harvard and Yale have all been beaten.

Penn, Dartmouth and Army now stand out for the mythical eastern championship but they do not play one another.

Eddie Tryon of Colgate, leading point scorer of the east, dashed Princeton's chances. Harvard was overwhelmed by Dartmouth's unexpected defeat by Holy Cross. Although beaten by a great Pennsylvania eleven the week before Yale came back Saturday with an impressive display of strength against Brown.

Pennsylvania won 7-0 triumph over the champion Chicago team of the Western conference.

Appleton was eliminated for the time being by its loss to West Green Bay Saturday, 3-0. Reports in this city indicate that the Appleton line did not outweigh the Bay squad much. Local sportsmen at the game attribute Appleton's loss to the punting of DeCoster of the Bay squad who shot the slippery ball from 40 to 50 yards in each attempt. Johnston, local star punter, could not get the pigskin off well after it became covered with mud and kicked only from 10 to 30 yards on each try, much below his usual average. As a result West high gained about 20 yards on every kick and had the local squad in the shadow of its goalposts throughout. Here the Orange line and rear defense fought well, staying off several possible touchdowns and place kicks.

Green Bay—The Green Bay Packers defeated the Rochester Reds, 33 to 13, Sunday afternoon in a professional football contest that would have delighted the heart of Col. Mitchell.

After trying out the tanks, light cruisers and obsolete implements of warfare on a field that was about of equal proportions in land and water, both teams took to the air and the scoring started shortly after the kick-off in the third period.

During the last half of the game, the fans were treated to a demonstration of passing, open field running and scoring far beyond anything ever seen in a professional contest here before. A pass, Lambear to Deen, well brought the Packers within striking distance for the first touchdown and a pass, Mathys to Norton, put the ball over.

Later in the same period a pass, Mathys to Lambear, was intercepted by Smith, the fleet Rochester back, who ran 70 yards before he fell 10 yards from his goal. The Packers held for downs and a moment later Marty Norton, the Minnesota flash, received a short pass from Lambear and ran 60 yards through a broken field for the Packers' second score. Backs try for goal went wild and the score was 13 to 0.

Norton later intercepted a pass and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Passing, Packer back, receiving short passes from Lambear, ran 40 yards and again 45 yards for a touchdown. In the meantime the visitors were availing themselves of the opportunity to cut in on the air commerce and passing by Smith and Grigg was the type of the visitors' performance. The game was considerably enlivened by the open field running by Smith, Grigg, Kellogg and Lynch for the Rochester team.

Penalties called during crucial moments in the game were received by both teams without complaint so that in addition to being a thrilling exhibition it was a remarkable example of clean playing and good sportsmanship.

DRIVING AGAINST THE WIND

Low ball is a drive that made when the ball is to go against the wind?

By BOBBY CRICKSHANK

One of America's Greatest Players

In playing against the wind I see my ball just slightly higher than usual. This will enable me to hit down and through the ball better.

In making the complete swing for this, my elbows are held just a little more to the sides throughout. The clubhead goes on through after the ball a little lower than usual, thus starting the ball away low. This will also give it a slight overspin and a better boring effect into the wind. In playing such a shot, I try to hit a little higher up on the ball than usual, say a little below the center, or almost the center. Of course one must be careful not to hit too high as that will result in a topped ball.

If properly played, it is a beautiful shot to watch.

SMITHMEN COME BACK IN FINAL PERIOD TO WIN

Fumbled Punt and Intercepted Pass Enable Kaukauna to Beat Neenah on Wet Field

Kaukauna—Coach William Smith's Kaukauna Tigers defeated Neenah high school 13-0 in a closely played game here Saturday afternoon. The score was tied until the last quarter when Kaukauna got a number of "breaks" which enabled it to score.

The game was featured by the brilliant playing of Farewell, Macrorie and Verbeten, Kaukauna backfield men, and Stip and Smith, Neenah ground gainers. Farewell gained most ground for Kaukauna while Stip starred for the Neenah aggregation. Kilgas, Kaukauna quarter did not play with his usual brilliance. The entire Smith team was ragged and displayed poor football. The Kaukauna line played poor football and the Neenah backs made gain after gain through the Kaukauna line. Neenah however never came close enough to the Kaukauna goal to get a chance to score.

Macrorie, left halfback played a good game of ball and covered a lot of ground for the home team. Verbeten also played a good game. Farewell tore through the Neenah line repeatedly for large gains but offside penalties lost much ground for the home squad. Kaukauna had a chance to score in the first quarter when it carried the ball to the 15 yard line with a series of line plunges. Kilgas called a pass on the third down and the ball rolled back of the goal posts and it went to Neenah on its own 20 yard line. This ended Kaukauna opportunities to score until the last quarter when a fumbled punt gave the home team a good chance but it failed to make first down with two yards to go. Neenah punted and Kilgas punted right back with a puzzling twist on the ball causing a second fumble and again Kaukauna recovered. Once more the Neenah line held with Kaukauna needing two yards on the fourth down. Neenah punted and a poor punt gave Kaukauna the ball on the 21 yard line and then Parwell and Kilgas made gain after gain. Parwell finally plunged over for the first score of the game. Kilgas followed with a pretty place kick.

Neenah then opened up with a series of baffling passing plays and succeeded in carrying the ball to the 40 yard line where Macrorie intercepted a pass and raced 45 yards for the second marker. Kilgas missed the try for the extra point. Kaukauna's backfield could not get started on the wet field.

LEGION GRIDMEN WALLOP DE PERE

Kaukauna Squad Piles Up
Three Touchdowns on Fighting Northern Team

Kaukauna—Playing the best brand of football displayed this year the Kaukauna legion team defeated the DePere city team here Sunday afternoon 18-0. The game was played on a muddy field and a lot of players were stopped because the backfield men could not get started on the wet grounds. Despite this, the Kaukauna backfield tore through De Pere for long gains.

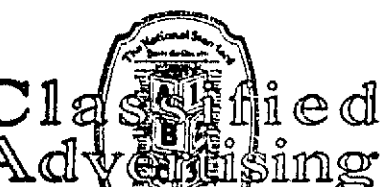

De Pere held Kaukauna without a score during the first quarter and then Miller was sent in to replace Merce at quarter. The fine showing made by "Midge" Miller, former high school quarterback, was a big help to the team. Miller, in spite of his handicap of size showed good foot ball sense in running the legion out and it tore over the goal line three times under his direction. The entire backfield, Rabadeau, Emerson and Vanle Loop was taken out and a lighter backfield, Dix, Timmons and Spindler was sent in. It tore through De Pere and with 10 seconds to go Spindler dashed over the line for the first marker. The attempt to place kick was blocked.

The same backfield started the second quarter and succeeded in crossing the De Pere goal line twice in the second. Spindler, after making a 33 yard run came out of the mixup with a broken collar bone. Kaukauna had several chances to score in the last quarter but seemed to lack punch to carry the ball the few extra feet needed.

Sunday's game was the best seen on the home field this year and the legion displayed some of the old pep and fight. This is a result of the hard work under Coach W. F. Ashe. Next Sunday the legion

At a meeting of the executive group of the local H-Y club Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., the secretary was instructed to write to Green Bay immediately, challenging the rival organization to an attendance contest for the annual state older boys' conference at Fond du Lac from Nov. 27-29 this year. The losing club is to banquet the winners. Points will be scored on a percentage basis with anything under 100 per cent recorded on an equal rating but attendance over a certain mark called 100 per cent, will score 200 points. The idea is expected to draw the two clubs still closer together for intercity work. The groups equated each other in the city of the last year and the older Appleton club instituted the Bay organization and installed its first officers over a year ago.
Plans for the club Halloween party Friday night also were discussed. The party will be held at the home of Frank Harriman, 327 W. Packard-st. Mr. Harriman is in charge of arrangements for the party.

WRONG IDENTITY NEW THEORY IN LATIMER CASE
Joseph St. Louis Says Irate Husband May Have Shot Pair—Plan Inquest
Working on a mistaken identity theory advanced by Joseph St. Louis, authorities at Kenosha Monday were attacking the Latimer-Sears murder mystery from a new angle. An inquest scheduled sometime this week is expected to shed further light on the shooting to death at Kenosha about ten days ago of Miss Madelynn Latimer of Appleton, and James Sears, Kenosha garage proprietor.
Mr. St. Louis is a former Appleton resident who now lives at Kenosha and is a brother-in-law of the slain girl. He was employed here as chauffeur for the late Joseph Ulman.
St. Louis expressed the belief that an irate husband, seeking his unfaithful wife and her lover, had come upon Sears and Madelynn and shot them, either by mistake or after Sears had engaged him in a fight.
BORROWED CAR
Police believe they will be able to learn the name of a friend of Sears who borrowed the latter's car occasionally to take another man's wife for a ride.
They hope in this way to either confirm or explode the theory. Aside from this new possibility, the investigation by both the police and sheriff was virtually at a standstill. It was announced that all persons questioned or arrested have been exonerated.
INCREASE REWARD
Relatives of Sears are expected to increase the reward and take an active part in the hunt for the murderer during the week.
The inquest probably will be held the latter part of this week, according to Joseph Friend, Kenosha coroner. Not less than forty witnesses will be summoned to relate what they know about the habits and friendships of the two victims, as well as their movements in and about Kenosha for the last several hours preceding their deaths.

HUNDREDS CAN'T GET INTO CHURCH FOR DEDICATION
New Methodist Church Packed at Every Service on Dedication Sunday
Although three services were held Sunday in connection with the dedication of the new Methodist church hundreds of persons were turned away at each service because the huge auditorium could not accommodate all who wanted to take part in the service.
The morning service opened with an organ prelude by Prof. Arthur H. Arneke, instructor of organ at Lawrence Conservatory of Music. He presented Largo by Handel and Andante by Chas. The church choir sang an anthem, "Praise the Lord," after the invocation which was delivered by the Rev. A. J. Benjamin, editor Wisconsin Christian Advocate at Milwaukee. The Rev. Richard Evans, superintendent of the Appleton district read the scripture and the Rev. John Scott Davis, Kingsley church, Milwaukee, led the prayer.
"Festival Te Deum," by Buck was sung by the church choir after which the Rev. J. A. Holmes gave the offertory prayer. The congregation then sang the hymn No. 600, Duke-st. Bishop Charles Edwards Locke of St. Paul, delivered the dedicatory sermon after which the dedication ritual was conducted. The morning service was concluded by Italian Hymn No. 661, benediction by the Rev. William J. Leek of Fond du Lac and an organ postlude, "Toccata from Fifth Organ Symphony."

JAZZ IN BARN MAKES CHORES PLEASANT WORK

Roy Menning, route 2, Appleton is a firm believer in the adage which recommends combining work with pleasure, music with work, is something along that line of thought. At least this is the impression which several of his friends, who recently called on him, received.

Roy is an excellent radio fan and as most radio enthusiasts know, some expert radio enthusiasts know, some excellent programs are in the ether during the supper hour. However, this is the hour which Roy, like many other farmers, has chosen to do his milking. So while he milked his cows, his farm listened to the radio and told him all about the fine program when he came into the house.

Roy stood this just so long, and then decided he would not miss out on the supper hour programs any longer despite the chores which had to be done about the barn.

He purchased some more wire and other loud speaker, and installed the loud speaker in the barn connecting it with the radio in his house. Now he has music while he milks, or is engaged in other chores, and he claims he doesn't mind working any more. Perhaps he may discover that music increases the flow of milk too. Who knows.
